

I don't think anyone can spend more than 99,999.99 at a concession stand. Also nothing costs more than 999.99 at a movie theater. The prices are predetermined by the theater and the customer buys desired amount/items of which changes per customer. Not everyone buys concessions

Tickets are for 1 movie only. Longest movie record is 51,420 minutes and the 2 is for the seconds

A customer will have to purchase one or multiple tickets. The ticket is created from the customers purchase and the movie is predetermined by the studio who produces it. The customer cannot create those, and the tickets are printed at the will of what the customer orders to watch
